OUR GAME LAWS,

A Correspondent Suggests Some Needed Reforms to Be Made. .

To the Editor of the Intelligencer. Sir:-I think the game laws of this state should be revised in some parts, and let the rest be as at present. There are several things that ought to be done. I will name the principal ones. The first regards seining. This should not be allowed at all. There is always a class of people who catch fish and destroy game in any way whatever but in a way to have sport, or save the fish or game from destruction. Nearly every town along the rivers of this state where there is fish has a fishing club, and these people seine every time they can, not even respecting the law, seining after night when the fish are asleep along the shores. I have seen as many as 400 fish seined after night in one draw. If something isn't done, in a few years there will not be a dozen fish of any size in the state. Stop seining and it will be considerable toward saving the fish. The first regards seining. This should not ing and it will be considerable toward saving the fish.

Second, dynamiting' More fish are destroyed in this manner in a year than all other ways combined. Although it is a fine or imprisonment to dynamite; still it is carried on to a large extent, going to a good place before daylight, and throwing in the charge, and gathering the fish after daybreak. This is the method used in dynamiting. Even the officers of the law see people with the fish. They very seldom try to have them indicted. If it was made a penitentiary offense, and two or three sent to the "pen" probably it would put an end to this.

to the "pon" probably it would put an end to this.

Third, shooting fish. This is punishable by fine, but fish are shot by thousands every spring. The bullet kills the young fish, or the eggs are left to be eaten by other fish or to spoil. I have known one person to kill a hundred bass in a week while they were spawning. About $25 for each offense would stop this. The saw mills should not be allowed to put sawdust into the rivers and creeks. I know small streams that four or five years ago were teeming with trout, are almost barren of these little speckled beauties now.

The hunting laws are strict enough if they were enforced and kept. But everybody is everybody's friend in the country, where there is game, and I doubt if they ever will be kept until the game is gone. I think it would be a good thing, and I think most hunters the state will favor it, to pav a bounty on foxes and owls. They kill turkeys, partridges and all game they can, not killing as much as they eat, but all they can. A bounty of 25 cents on owls and 50 cents on foxes would soon rid us of these destroyers.

I think it would be a good law to al-

50 cents on loxes would soon rid us of these destroyers.

I think it would be a good law to allow persons coming from other states to kill only a certain number of squirrels or other game. I have noticed in the last two or three years that more game is killed in this state by people from elsewhere than by those living in the state. At the rate game has been disappearing in the last five years, if the same percentage is kept up, there will be no game at all in a few years. Let the legislature amend the game laws and protect the game.

Hausson, Ill., Feb. 6.—While searching in a blizzard last night for his missing daughter, Henry Graham perished almost within reach of his own door. His little twelve-year-old girl left the house just before dusk. Fail-ing to return the father went in search of her. The snow lay over a foot deep of her. The snow lay over a foot deep on the ground and was falling thickly and the wind was blowing forty miles an hour. An hour later he was found frozen stiff on his own door-step. The daughter has not yet been found, and it is believed that she was exhausted by the cold, lay down and was buried by the snow. the snow.

More neople die suddenly from pneumonia than from any other known complaint. Why? Because it comes unexpectedly, because it gives no warning, has no symptoms, other than those above stated, and yet it is the most intail of all known diseases.

In view of these solemn facts, what shall any sensible man or woman do who reads these words? Manifestly guard against the coming of this dangerous disease. How? Not by dosing with quinine but by strengthening, by toning the system with some pure stimulant of tenic power. There are many which claim to peakes this quality, but there is but one which actually does possess it. That one is Duffy's Pure Malt whisker. STATE NOTES.

Mr. John Rockstool, aged about 70 years, died at his residence on Muddy creek, Greenbrier county, on Thursday, January 19, 1893, under singular circumstances. He was apparently in his usual health, and was walking about his premises. He sent for Mr. James Tincher, who lived near, and said to him that he did not expect to live long and requested Mr. Tincher to make for him a black walnut coffin of the old fashioned kind, plainly trimmed, and also desired that no doctor should be summoned to "dose him with drugs," as he desired to die in the full possession of his mental faculties. He also requested that his body be kept in the house two or three days before burial. A short time after giving these instructions he was in the act of falling, and before he could be carried to his bed life was extinct.—Greenbrier Independent.

The Weston Democrat says that on last Saturday two Italians arrived in Weston from New York, and at once went to the hospital for the insage and went to the hospital for the insane and made inquiries concerning one Michael Dinifio, an Italian, for whom they had looked all over the United States and Canada. During his separation from his comrades his mind became impaired and he was committed to the hospital from Logan county about ten months ago. The gentlemen who were looking for him had expended a large sum of money and visited principally all of the large cities, and finally obtained information through the Italian consul that he was confined in an insane asylum at Weston. They were overjoyed to find the long lost man, and left on the early train Monday morning for New York, whence they will sail for Italy.
